Flowing Million Feet

Per Day is Capacity of New Gas Well Struck by Ohio Valley Co. at Brooksville

Good news came this morning at 8:40 from President Brown, who is drilling the test well at Brooksville for the Ohio Valley Oil and Gas Co. of this city.

Brown telephoned THE PUBLIC LEDGER that at 4 p. m. yesterday at a depth of 1,000 feet, he struck the third pocket of natural gas which is now flowing with a pressure of 25 pounds to the square inch and at the rate of 1,000,000 feet per day.

If this is the case it will prove a rich strike to the waiting stockholders, and will not only enrich them, but boom this entire section of the State.

No such flow of gas has ever been struck in this part of Kentucky.

LOST AGAIN

Maysville Throws Away the Last Game to Paris, Score 5 to 4

It was cold and we lost. Ain't it awful, mama?

In spite of Snyder's home run in the fourth, bringing in two others, Maysville hit the mat in the last game of the series.

Those who witnessed the throw-down yesterday cursed the luck and declared that Umpire Mulligan "robbed" the home team of the game by calling Sanford out at the plate in the ninth when he was safe.

They "Threw Him Out" at Home.

His Umps in the third found Campbell a live spot for talking back when he was called out on a third strike.

The score:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 R. H. E.
Paris. . . . 0 10 20 0 0 10 1 - 5 9 1

The Job and the Risk

A man told me, when he heard of my topic for next Sunday night, that there were a great number of men here who had no objection to a job, or holding down a job, or drawing their wages. The only objection they had, he said, was doing anything but just holding the job and drawing wages.

The employer has his side. To him an employer is a harder job than the man who works for him often thinks it is. He has to carry all the burden of the business, and the money for the pay envelope and take all the risk.

I have nothing to say to the lazy man next Sunday night. If there are lazy men in Maysville I can preach a sermon to them some other time. I hope you will not stay away on that account. I am inviting every man who holds a job, either as employer or employee, to come and hear me speak of the need of Christianity in business.

How about your job? Let us talk it over next Sunday night.

Generous Price Concessions

Eternal vigilance is the price of good merchandising. Stocks are constantly overhauled to see if they contain any loiterers who are destroying profits by locking up capital that should be invested in quickly-moving goods. Often a merchant finds it pays to sell some lines at a loss and invest the money so obtained in goods that will bring a certain and prompt profit. In some cases we can conjecture why the goods move slowly, in other cases we are at a loss. In either case we frankly tell you. We have just made a tour of inspection and its resulting list with the reason thereof follows:

Muslin Petticoats

The quality at each price is all that could be asked and the garments are carefully made. The only reason we can assign for these excellent garments not selling faster is that their proportions may be too generous.

We can't cut the skirts down but we can cut the prices deep enough to pay you for the trouble of making alterations if you find it necessary. You may not, for some women to whom the skirts were shown said they did not object to the moderate width. However the skirts are not selling last enough to suit us so in order to interest you we cut prices as follows:

With the exception of the $5 Skirts of which there are almost too few to advertise there are ample quantities.

The $5 Skirts are $3.4.
The $4 and $3.75 Skirts are $2.4.
The $3 and $2 1/2 Skirts are $1.98.
The $2 and $1 1/2 Skirts are 98c.
The $1.25 and $1 Skirts are 75c.
The 75c and 59c Skirts are 39c.

Reading the figures may not interest you but seeing the skirts will for they represent big money saving and rare values.

The New York Times in a recent issue publishes the following comment:

EDITORIAL SINS CONFESSED.

Many a journalistic heart will sympathetically with some explanations and excuses given by The Lexington (Ky.) Herald for the occasional appearance in its columns of typographical errors. One of its readers—evidently a most fault-finding person—complained because in a single paragraph it turned Mrs. John Frazer's well-known name to "Fizer," and the charming Miss Bettie Barrow's to "Brower," substituted "Bryon Manor" for "Bryn Mawr" and put a needless and undignifying "t" on the end of the word "rabbi." This, the critical reader sarcastically remarked, indicated that The Herald would be the better for the services of a proofreader.

The Herald's editor humbly admits that the showing was pretty bad; but with a truly noble frankness he says that not all errors of the kind cited are due to carelessness or incompetency in proofreading. Editors and reporters, he says, sometimes write proper names inaccurately or illegibly, and he adds:

The Herald has a corps of writers unequalled anywhere else in America, so far as we know, in the peculiar individuality of their handwriting. Written by some of the members of the staff, "Frazer" might appear as "Fuzpatric" or "Barrow" as "Wheelbarrow" or "Bryn Mawr" as "Bryan's Mother." Sometimes, when one of these writers is asked to type a word what a certain word is, and the writer is unable himself to decipher his own writing an hour after it is written, the trouble of the proofreader may be understood.

Such confession as that is good for the editorial soul—if it be followed by earnest, prayerful efforts to reform, and by the abandonment of those temptations to graphic sins, the pen and the pencil, and the use of the virtuous and elevating typewriter instead. Some day, and not very far in the future, newspapers are going to insist that all "copy" be typewritten and to refuse even examination to any other. Doing that wouldn't abolish all typographical errors, but it would very appreciably raise the moral tone of the whole country if pens were used only for signing checks and pencils for the making of hasty memoranda. Especially stub pens and soft pencils.

Exactly right is The Times. Newspapers should insist that all copy be typewritten. The Herald has tried to follow this rule for ten years, but to a certain extent a new generation has to be bred and brought up before it can be made an inviolate rule. As an illustration, what chance in the world is there of teaching Enoch Grebau to write on the typewriter, or to write his paragraphs with anything except a soft stub pencil, and that he or any one else can read what he writes is always a marvel to us. In fact we do not believe even he can. We think the printers just guess at it, and then when the proof comes back he revises the proof not in accord with what he first wrote, but in accord with what his agile and facile mind thinks of at the time he reads the proof.

But joking aside, how some mistakes occur it is impossible to explain. It is only possible to pray that they will be overlooked by readers as well as by proofreaders.—Lexington Herald.

The magic of baseball has wrought a wonderful change in the United States Penitentiary at Leavenworth. For the first time in the prisoner's history, not one convict is undergoing punishment for breaking prison rules. Such infractions are punished by putting the convict in striped clothing, and now there is not one convict so clothed.

All this, so prison officials say, is due to the organization of the three baseball teams among the convicts. Infractions of the rules, in addition to the striped clothing, results in the convict's baseball pass being taken away, so he is not permitted to witness the prison game. It used to be usual to find anywhere from 20 to 50 men wearing stripes, but immediately after the notification that infraction of the rules meant loss of the baseball pass the chronic trouble makers began to be so good that the officials were startled.

As a result the prison officials now are planning winter amusements, such as vaudeville entertainments and moving picture shows, to keep the men on their good behavior.

CAPTAIN ROSTROM'S REPORT

Capt. A. H. Rostrom was in command of the Cunard line steamship Carpathia, which rescued the survivors of the Titanic disaster. His ship was east bound on its regular trip when the distress signal was picked up by the vessel's wireless operator. In his official report to the general manager of the company, the captain said, in part:

"I beg leave to report that at 12:35 a. m. Monday, 15th inst., I was informed of urgent message from Titanic with its position. I immediately ordered ship turned around and put it in course for that position, we being then fifty-eight miles away. Had heads of all departments called and issued what I considered the necessary orders to be in preparation for any emergency.

"At 2:40 a. m. saw flare half a point on port bow. Taking this for granted to be a ship, shortly after we sighted our first iceberg. I had previously had lookouts doubled, knowing that Titanic had struck ice and so took every care and precaution. We soon found ourselves in a field of bergs, large and small, and had to alter our course several times to clear bergs.

"We stopped at 4:00 a. m., thus doing distance in three hours and a half, picking up the first boat at 4:10 a. m., boat in charge of officer, and he reported that Titanic had foundered. At 8:30 a. m. last boat picked up. All survivors aboard and all boats accounted for.

"At 8:00 a. m. the Leyland steamship California came up. I gave him the principal news and asked him to search and I would proceed to New York; at 8:50 proceeded full speed while researching over vicinity of disaster."

WOMAN HEADS CHILD BUREAU

Miss Julia C. Lathrop of Chicago, now and for many years a colleague of Jane Addams in the work of Hull House, has been appointed chief of the recently created children's bureau of the national government. The nomination was sent to the senate the other day by President Taft.

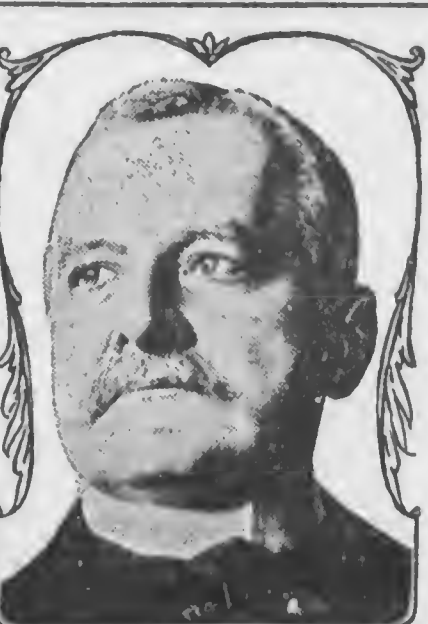

Miss Lathrop is the first woman ever selected to direct a bureau of the federal government. Moreover, to her will be committed the foundation and development of the activities which the national government is about to undertake to further the welfare of children.

It is expected she will build up an institution which will be an important branch of the government service in the investigation of conditions of child life and in correlating and accelerating the activities of individual states in bettering such conditions.

The appointment of Miss Lathrop was urged upon President Taft by social reform organizations not only in Chicago but in other parts of the country. He was informed that she has made a specialty of the study of child life and its amelioration in connection with settlement work and that she has been prominent in the movement which resulted in the enactment of child labor legislation in Illinois.

The same organizations which endorsed Miss Lathrop brought about the creation of the children's bureau by congress.

BARON HENGELMULLER ANGRY

Baron Ladislas Hengelmuller von Hengervar, Austrian-Hungarian Ambassador to this country, journeyed to the Hamburg-American line docks in Hoboken the other afternoon to meet the baroness and their daughter, who were passengers on the steamship Amerika.

Outside the docks were scores of taxicabs on which were taximeters which registered distances and the amount of change due from passengers. But the baron passed these by and his eye lighted on a limousine car owned by Hexamer's garage and driven by Fred Volkman, one of its chauffeurs. There was no taximeter on this car, but in his pocket Volkman carries a schedule of prices.

"We'll take this," said the baron to the baroness, and he assisted his wife and daughter and the maid into the vehicle, and to Volkman remarked: "The Hotel St. Regis, New York."

Volkman drove to the ferry and paying the passage money from his own pocket, crossed over to Manhattan. Then with all speed he drove to the St. Regis.

The baroness, the daughter and the maid alighted. Then came the baron. He stepped to the chauffeur and asked brusquely: "How much?"

"Six dollars and fifty cents. The fifty cents is for ferrriage," answered Volkman.

The baron's face grew red, his eyes were fixed hard on the chauffeur and he gasped: "Six dollars and a half? I'll not pay it."

Ambassadors being bigger than New York police, Volkman turned the account over to the company for collection.

PRINCESS PAT IS AN ARTIST

New Yorkers are enjoying the opportunity of viewing some of the artistic handwork of Princess Patricia of Connaught, who recently won so much popularity there.

Six of her paintings were selected from those shown at the Montreal art exhibition, and are now on exhibition in New York. As a water color painter she has few rivals in Europe, certainly none in this royal house.

A picture reputed to be one of the clearest works of the princess shows King Edward, smiling in perfect content, leaving the dinner table.

"I Was Hungry" is the title of this whimsical conceit. King Edward dearly loved his niece, Patricia, and did his best to spoil her. He used to urge her to give imitations of their kin and roared with laughter at her skill at mimicry. As she grew older it is said she exacted a promise from him that he would never use his royal prerogative to force her into a marriage she did not desire. Certain it is, if she has not been able to marry the man of her choice, she has at least remained free.

"YOU LOOK SO WELL"

Just say that to a woman and see her eyes sparkle with pleasure. She knows there is no beauty like the beauty of health.

Unfortunately, at this time of year so many women are in a weakened, run-down condition, that there are few to whom one can say it.

Mrs. C. Langan, 1954 Anthony ave., New York City, says in a letter: "My health began to run down two years ago, and from that time to last April I was in a badly weakened condition with little energy and poor appetite. Having heard so much about Vinol, I began taking it, and already I have improved so much that all my friends notice a great difference. I have entirely recovered my former strength—thanks to Vinol."

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil is of the greatest value in creating strength, restoring appetite and building up the body. Pale, sickly women, overworked men, feeble old folks and delicate children all need it, and we positively guarantee Vinol to give satisfaction. John C. Pecor, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

Pack the Church Next Sunday Night

You have heard of packed conventions? It means that what was done was determined on beforehand.

I am not in favor of packed politics, but I like a packed Church. It is a novelty you do not see very often in Maysville. Yet if you and 699 men like you come to the Christian Church next Sunday night, we can truthfully say the Church is packed. Takes about 600 to do it.

The thing determined on beforehand is to help you, to do you good, to bring you to Christ.

I hope to give you something good for 7 days out of every week, but it will be a corn bread sermon.

Say, Mister, how about your job? Come out next Sunday night and let us talk it over. Meeting begins at 7:30 sharp.

SIXTY-FOUR GRADUATES

From the Public Schools of Maysville and Many to Enter High Schools

Examinations for graduates from the common schools of the county were held Saturday in three different places—at Miss Yanco's office, at Minerva and at Maysville. Diplomas will be issued by the County Board of Examiners to those who pass.

There are sixty-four graduates including eighteen who took the examination in January. This is the largest number in the history of the county. Nearly all of them will enter the county High Schools at Minerva or Maysville.

The schools of the county were represented as follows: Minerva, 14; Maysville, 13; Perry, 4; Sardis, 3, and 2 from Plainville, Springdale, Murphysville, Bernard, Rectorville and Hill-top.

Commencement exercises for these graduates will be held in Maysville, August 20th. The addresses will be delivered by Prof. Matchler of Bowling Green. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, President of the Kentucky Educational Association, will present the diplomas.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for anyone that it fails to cure. Send for full particulars.

If You Like a Little Quiet Fun

Ask some pompous person if Grape-Nuts Food helps build the brain.

Chances are you get a withering sneer and a hiss of denunciation. Then sweetly play with the learned toad.

Ask him to tell you the analysis of brain material and the analysis of Grape-Nuts.

"Don't know? Why, I supposed you based your opinions on exact knowledge instead of pushing out a conclusion like you would a sneeze." "Well, now your tire is punctured, let's sit down like good friends and repair it."

The bulky materials of brain are water and albumin, but these things cannot blend without a little worker known as Phosphate of Potash, defined as a "mineral salt."

One authority, Geohagan, shows in his analysis of brain, 5.33 per cent. total of mineral salts, over one-half being Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined, (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent.

Beaunis, another authority, shows Phosphoric Acid and Potash (Phosphate of Potash) more than one-half the total mineral salts, being 73.44 per cent. in a total of 101.07.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says:

"The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumin and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumin and water.

Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

Every day's use of brain wears away a little.

Suppose your kind of food does not contain Phosphate of Potash.

How are you going to rebuild today the worn-out parts of yesterday?

And if you don't, why shouldn't nervous prostration and brain-fag result?

Remember, Mind does not work well on a brain that is even partly broken down from lack of nourishment.

It is true that other food besides Grape-Nuts contains varying quantities of Brain food.

Plain wheat and barley do. But in Grape-Nuts there is a certainty.

And if the elements demanded by Nature, are eaten, the life forces have the needed material to build from.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

"There's a Reason" for go much farther and do a great deal more in clothes buying than to buy your Spring clothes right here in Maysville from a reputable Maysville merchant. Responsibility is the cornerstone of modern merchandising.
